Responsibility (CSR) is not merely about charity, but also about playing a more responsible part in the society, be it within the organisation or towards its stakeholders, environment, society and the world at large.

In 2009, the Landmark Group adopted diabetes awareness as part of its long term CSR initiative. An initiative that aims to increase awareness amongst people regarding the condition, Beat Diabetes was kicked off in the UAE. Today 'Beat Diabetes' has a presence seven countries namely UAE, Kuwait, Oman, Qatar, Bahrain, KSA and India. In 2012, over 45,000 people walked with the Group for the cause and thousands benefitted from the free blood glucose tests that were conducted.

In India, the Group's Chairman, Micky Jagtiani initiated the LIFE Trust programme (Landmark International Foundation for Empowerment) in 2000. LIFE focuses on rehabilitating the less fortunate through various programmes and initiatives such as delivering non-formal education in rural areas, setting up health centres in urban slums as well as training centres for the underprivileged youth and imparting life skills training.
